Park City, Utah – To kick off 2009, the Defending Western Sled Hockey League Champion Golden Eagles will be hosting a weekend of hard-hitting action at the Park City Ice Arena this Friday and Saturday, January 9-10.

Last year the National Ability Center's Golden Eagles won the inaugural title without dropping a single game. This season has been another great one for the team, but the addition of the USA's U-20 national sled hockey team has brought stiffer competition to the ice.

"This year has certainly been tougher for us," said Golden Eagles Head Coach, Jim Weeks. "There's a new team in the league, and we've been trying to work with a new goalie. That can make it a little hard at the beginning of the season."

Sacramento, Phoenix and Denver will also have teams competing in a round-robin series of games throughout the weekend. Sacramento hosted the first games of the year where the Golden Eagles won three of their four games. The only loss came to Team USA.

In Park City, all games will be free to the public. The Golden Eagles will take on Team USA on Friday morning in the first game of the weekend at 8am. The rest of the schedule can be found online at www.DiscoverNAC.org.

The National Ability Center is committed to the development of lifetime skills for people of all ages and abilities by providing affordable sports and recreational experiences in a nurturing environment. The objective of these experiences is to build self-esteem, confidence and physical development, thereby enhancing active participation in all aspects of community life.
